Spaces

CNI's work focuses on spaces that have a particular connection with information organizations and professionals, such as digital scholarship centers, learning or information commons, libraries, computing labs, multimedia centers, and centers for teaching and learning. We highlight good practice in planning new or renovated facilities, interaction between technology, space, and services, and cross-sector implementations of facilities, such as those jointly administered by library and information technology organizations.

Table Discussion I

Discuss: (25 minutes)

- Introduce yourself to the individuals at your table by describing how your library's physical spaces changed in recent years. (Or what changes are being planned for the near future.) This includes spaces for users and staff.
- What's one strategic change you would like to see happen within your physical space? How might this change impact your organization?
- When you reflect on your ideal work environment, what's one organizational change you would like to explore? What types of interactions or relationships could be enhanced?

Reporting out: (10 minutes)

Report one "best idea" from your table.

Table Discussion 2

Discuss: (20 minutes)

- Does your organization have a shared understanding of innovation?
- How does your organizational structure foster or inhibit innovation?
- If you could make one change in your organizational environment to foster innovation, what would it be?
- If you could make one change in your physical environment to foster innovation, what would it be?

Reporting out (10 minutes)

- Share one of the most provocative or valuable take-aways from your conversation around these questions.
